Intern / Cataloguer: Augusta Museum of History

The Augusta Museum of History is seeking an intern to work as a cataloguer of historical artifacts. The museum is in the process of moving its collection into a new collections storage facility and is working to catalogue the artifacts as they are relocated. Applicant must have database experience (preferably PastPerfect), be capable of lifting and moving objects and not be afraid of heights. A hard-working, detail oriented person with basic knowledge of and experience with museum cataloguing procedures is needed. A good basic knowledge of all types of historical artifacts and how to research them is necessary.

The internship pays $8.00 per hour for a 40-hour week for a period of 14 weeks beginning as soon as possible.
